Practise Summary

I am interested in the ways we are associated with particular aesthetics and how this might inhibit or camouflage alternative dialogues. The ruined or romantic for example, can also be understood as being weathered or worn, but how does this transference of words effect the ways we understand place and people?

The works I create have been inspired by observing and inhabiting place, people and myself. In doing so I endeavour to create a timeless experience that depicts the effects of everyday and unusual encounters; a place that is relatable through marks which describe the attachments we create, and the scars they leave on the skin and soul.
